AMENDMENTS TO THE ABSTRACT:

On page 36 please replace lines 2-12 to read in full as follows:

A method for processing instructions by a processing unit. An instruction set is dynamically set for the processing unit using a selected instruction map. The selected instruction map is selected as one being different from a normal instruction map for the processing unit. The instructions are processed at the processor using the instruction set. A set of authorized instructions are encoded using the selected instruction map.